BY WILLIAM W. FOSDICK. I have roamed where the north lakes brilliantly shine.

By the sands of the east that are lashed with the brine by the thick tangled shores of the tropical bayou; But the home of my heart is the darling Ohio. At the foot of the mountains its flood has its birth, and it follows the track of the sun o'er the earth, and wears its nich gliding upon its blue breast. Till hid by the dark purple rim of the west, at housand long miles, a gold ribbon girth, Tickets are sold.

It has no bold shore with a castle-crowned cliff, Whence the tall vessel dwindles sway to a skiff; No rock-bastioned border, whence batteries frown, To guard with their thunders the water-washed town But glides through the forest, and floats by the field, As quiet as sunshine that sleeps on a shield—from its source to its mouth ever peacefully flows, Like a cube summer day, from its dawn to its close, When the high road of fleaven is sairly trod By the forms that walk up to the mansion of God.

"Enter, enter, dear brother," said father Massiot, passing under the vault first.

The report was already circulated in the castle that a stranger had just arrived. Helene ran, and saw, with some surprise, her father standing in the middle of the castlefyard with a vagabond, who seemed to be talking to him familiarly. She remained standing upon the last step of the stairs, observing the pair with an uneasy curiosity. A

"But they have left the outer entrance open; for what purpose?" murmured Helene, struck with a vague fear.

Then she went out upon the terrace, and cast an anxious look over the valley; she ran back precipitately, erying out:

"I see a body of armed men debouching into the road. Their guns are shining in the sunlight."

"Oh, my dear godmother, what the monk told us must be true then."

"What then? what has he said which terrifies you, my child?" demanded the good lady quickly.

"Alasl all kinds of misfortunes," replied Helene, without daring to explain herself further.

She returned to the terrace; but from this point only a small part of the valley could be seen, and they could only perceive the first slope of the rude road which led up to the castle-gate.

"Come, my dear Helene," then said Madame de Rocabert;" not far from here there is a place where we can see all that passes without being seen ourselves. Come; follow me."

At these words she gained the extremity of the terrace, and with a still agile step ran along the walk which wound around the rampart; then pentrating into passages which Helene did not know, and ascending a stairway which resembled a stone ladder, she extered a turret situated above the guard house, lighted by loopholes which widened out inwards in the thickness of the wall. A narrow window, which looked out upon the castle yard in the rear, suffered at this moment a brilliaint ray of sunlight to penetrate through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the openings of its dismond panes, and to through the armount liant ray of sunlight to penetrate through the openings of its diamond panes, and to throw a clear light into this cell, in which no one had penetrated for a number of years.

the doors of which had not been opened for a century, and into casemates where were still to be seen pikes of the time of the League.

The Count stopped a long time to examine the entrance of the castle. This was a vaulted passage, at the extremities of which were folding gates; the hinges, eaten by the rust, could still be deeped a long time to examine the entrance of the castle. "A whole army would besiege this eagle's nest in vain; it is like the famous castle of Usson, in "Those men yender then are Jacobins!" said the Father Massiot had accompanied the old gentleman in this inspection; he took up the discourse in his turn; and said, drawing himself up to his whole height:

"If the Jacobins attempt to scale these ramparts, we can give them an entertainment of which they will talk for a long time in this country, and even the gate, they are very trash to adventure upon such a perilous route."

"Just heaven! what will happen if they mount up here?" cried Helene.

"Nothing at all, my dear," replied Madame de Rocabert; "as the portculis is lowered, they caunty and even the gate, they will very naturally go held as they moment after, the Count drew near the entrance and cried, turning towards a group of peasants who were awaiting his orders:

"To the gate, my men!"

At this command, the peasants mounted into a small room above the gaveway, which room they still called the guard house, and two minutes later, Helene saw with astonishment the portculis slowly descend before the inner gate.

"Father!" cried shap, going up to the Count, "are we threatened with an attack?"

"Go in, my daughter," maid he imperiously, without replying to her, "go in! your place is not here at such a moment."

"Why, not, father? for you are perhaps about to run into some danger," she replied with a resolute rair, and with the vague presentinent that something terrible was going to happen.

The Count did not insist, but he gave orders that every one should keep beyond the inclosure of the first court, without making any movement or any noise which might raise a suspicion that there were so many men in the eastle. Helene of the first court, without emotion; "even if there should be an army under these walls, we should be an army under these parts, that a shepherdess with her distaff would be sufficient to guard Roeabert."

"Would to heaven, in this case, that I were altered to define it?" cried Helene; "oh! my dear godmother, father Massiot has remained with Suzette's brothers in the guard house; if he is watching for any one from thence, it is in order to kill him."

"Why? This would be useless, since no one can penetrate by force into the eastle; a hundred men might try their best to force the perteutilis; they could not shake it, and it would be difficult for thirty persons to force themselves unde

The Black Republicans evidently intend to make a great national issue out of the assault upon Sumner; and they expect to make the whole South, as well as the Democracy of the North, responsible for the act; because they will not now make fools of themselves by adopting the fanatical and extravagant remedies proposed by the nigger-worshipers. The prominent demand is that Brooks be expelled from the House to which he belongs. The Senate took the matter in hand, and wisely concluded that they had no power in the premises; the House have ordered an investigation, and what will they do about it? Brooks did not insult the House to which he belongs; he page of this morning's issue. has committed no offense against that body. His offense is a subject of judicial inquiry and punishment. It was committed outside of the chamber of the House of Representatives; and, in our judgment, they have nothing to do with it. | Col. W. A. Latham, late General Agen court, and what right has the House of Representatives to prejudge the case?

Herbert was not expelled the House; although he was guilty of homicide; but he was bound to answer to the proper tribunal, and it was not for a legislative body to interpose its judgment in the case. The exercise of power, merely because it is possessed, to gratify party revenge, will be a dangerous precedent that ought not to be tolerated. We have had it preached about here, that it was exceedingly wrong even for the press to make comments upon a case before a criminal court. same virtuous individual, so jealous of interferance with legal tribunals, advises at once that the House of Representatives pronounce judgment upon this case, and expel the accused from his seat in advance of his trial before a court. Why should not the House of Representatives at Washington take charge of the deportment of members out of doors generally; see that they didn't frequent gambling saloons, drink bad whisky, and otherwise disgrace themselves? Where will this business stop, if we allow Congress to commence this usurpation of power? The majority may expel a minority after awhile, and coure the legislation of the country unrestrained.

We think the laws of the country are quite sufficient to arrest and punish offenses by members of Congress; and that representatives in that body may be going West. should conform their action to the protection of their own rights and dignity. The Destruction of Lawrence. We cannot bring ourselves to believe that the people of Lawrence are so craven as to have submitted to the man Jones, who was so pathetically killed only a few weeks ago, and a few of his myrmidons from Missouri We wait for a clearer statement of the event, which forms the caption of the sartice, than that our telegraphic report gives this morning, before we shall believe that the men of Lawrence cowardly submitted to the doubly-dyed scoundrels who play the Claverhouse to the great criminal who is President of the United States, without a bloody contest. We ask all good citizens to wait a little, and if the worst prove true, prepare to act as become free men and Christians. God speed the right.—Pittsburg Commercial.

Hampton's Tincture. HAD BEEN AFFLICTED WITH lungs and chest pained me very much after acoughing spell.

I tried various remedies, but obtained no relief. One of my friends recommended Dr. Hampton, and the use of two bottles of his medicine effected a cure. I do not cough, my lungs do not pain me, and I feet well. I can, from my own experience of the beneficial effects of his remedy, recommend it to all who are afflicted as I was.

But the immense patronage and success that has attended the sale of the article manufactured by me, and the opinion of competent judges as to its qualities as a beverage and the opinion of competent judges as to its qualities as a beverage and its medicinal virtues, preclude. pugn. No doubt he feels aggrieved at the depreciation of the sale of his Schnapps, which is manifest to all since mine has been brought into competition with his.

Not only have I succeeded in competing with him my article will soon satisfy him that his caution to the citizens of the "Southern and Western States" will vail him nothing as far as I am concerned. The naracter of my Schiedam Schnapps is too well estab-

Caution to Western Merchants I

WOLFE'S This celebrated medicinal beverage is manufactured at the factory of the undersigned, at Schiedam, Holand. He is the sole importer, as well as the exclusive manufacturer of the article; and no preparation bearing the name of "Schnapps," that is not procured either from his establishment in New-York, or from his gents in other cities, is genuine and reliable. It is made from barley of the finest quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts; is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit very acrid particle. As a means of preventing and correcting the disa-recable and often dangerous effects produced upon hestomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitaion to which travelers, new settlers, and all unaccli-nated persons in the west, the south, and southwest are peculiarly liable—the Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstruction of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspopsia, and general debility, it is re commended most emphatically by the most distinuished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one lozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature on the label. Forsale by allrespectable druggists and country mer-cants. UDOLPHO WOLFE, Nos. 18, 20, and 22 Beaver street, New York. CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

Since the introduction of my Schiedam Schnapps ato the United States, a number of liquor-mixers in New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, have commenced putting up mixed and poison gin, and calling it schnapps. That name belongs expressly to my article; all others are counterfeits and impositions on the

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE IS Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

They don't help complaints, but they cure them. One box has cured Dyspepsia.

Three boxes have cured the worst cases of Scrofula. Two boxes have cured Erysipelas.

One box always cures the Jaundice Three boxes are sure to cleanse the system from oils-often less than one does it. Two boxes have completely cured the worst of Ulce Small doses seldom fail to cure the Piles.

One dose cures the Headache arising from a fou Strong doses, often repeated, expel every Worm from quester, the body. They should be given to children, who are where. always more or less afflicted with this scourge. As a gentle Physic, they have no equal.

One box cures Derangement of the Liver. Half a box cures a Cold. They Purify the Blood, and thus strike at the founation of every disease.

As a Dinner Pill, there is not their equal in the world. They are purely vegetable, and can do no harm, but do accomplish an unaccountable amount of good.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER, Tractical Chemist, Lowell, Mass., and sold by J. C. Ayer & Co., Cincinnati, all the Druggists in Louisville, Scribner & Devol, New Albany, and all Dealers in Medicine through this section. my12 d&w2m

CONGRESSIONAL.

The message of the President in relation to Central American stairs was sent to the Senate yesterday, but not read. It merely incloses a letter of Mr. Marcy to Mr. Dallas, dated May 24 on the British Government and that of the United States regarding the construction and effect of the Convention of the 19th April, 1850, and the Central American question generally, and stating to Mr. Dallas the views the President entertains on that question as it now stands, in order that he may communicate the same to the Earl of Clarendon. There has been no direct communication between There has been no direct communication between the two Governments on the main subject since the two Governments on the main subject since the two Governments on the main subject since the control of the Philadelphia Convention met this morning. It is the largest political gathering ever held in the State. John M. Palmer, of Maccoupin county, was clected chairman. W. H. Bissett, of St. Clair county, was nominated Governor by accimation. F. A. Hoffman, of Chicago, Lieutenant Governor. Governor Reeder speaks this afternoon. For Secretary Station, O. M. Hatch, of Pike county. Treasurer, Jas. Miller, of McLean. Auditor, Jesse N. Dubois, of Lawrence. State Superintendent, Wm. Powell, of Peoria. Presidential electors and delegates to the Philadelphia Convention were appointed. Adjourned. Washington, May 30-M. to defend them against personal assault. There has been no direct communication between the two Governments on the main subject since the letter of Mr. Buchanan to Earl Clarendon, of September last, his lordship's reply on the 28th September, and a brief rejoinder by Mr. Buchanan on the #th of the following October.

The Peacident it appears would have been bet-ment were calculated to produce so favorable a consumation. For want of this the President was left to conjecture the precise idea of her Majesty's Government. He could not be certain that his conjecture concerning it was well founded, but was induced, by certain collateral accidents which have occurred to infer it was by the adjitution of have occurred, to infer it was by the arbitration of a third power of the difference between the two Governments relative to Central America.

was one merely of the interpretation of the con-vention of 1850.

That is not so understood by this Government, which does not understand that at the date of the treaty Great Britain had any possessions or occupied any territory in Central America, unless the British establishment at Belize with its dependencies as the same are defined by her treat es with Spain are to be considered as British possessions for territory in Central America. for territory in Central America. That is only the possible construction of the declarations ex-changed between Mr. Clayton and Mr. Bulwer at the time of exchanging the ratifications of the

the public by asserting that the name "Schiedam Schnapps" belongs exclusively to his article, and that allothers are counterfeits and impositions?

U. W. has no emonopoly, and no more right for the soleimportation of Schiedam Schnapps than anybody included the sole of the soleimportation of Schiedam Schnapps than anybody included the sole of the soleimportation of Schiedam Schnapps than anybody included the sole of the soleimportation of Schiedam Schnapps than anybody included the sole of the After reviewing Great Britain's pretensions, Mr.

incurred, they having entered into the treaty upon the supposition that an absolute reciprocity of re-striction was also incurred by Great Britain. The President says he cannot do anything which could be taken to admit them either directly or implied, but there is a question in his mind relative to the true construction of that convention, and he feels bound to take care that in interlining Corn meal steady at $3 for Jersey and $3.25 for Brandywine.

of Great Britain and the United States to dispose of the sovereign rights of Nicaragua or any other State of Central America.

Mr. Marcy concludes as follows: The President would not decline to refer to arbitration. He is aware of many practical obstacles to the adjustment of any international difference of this nature by arbitration, of which difficulties Great Britain and the United States have had experience in the attempt to settle, by such means, the previous controversy on the subject of boundary between the Unicd States and the British Provinces in North America. The President does not doubt that any one of the powers of Europe which should consent to undertake the task of such arbitration, as now proposed, would perform the duty in perfect impartiality. But to apply to any power to do this would be to ask of it an act, which if granted, would add to their own domestic duties and labors a burden of settling the complicated differences. Conce. Electro-Chemical Baths, FOR EXTRACTING MERCURY, Lead, Iodine, or other metallic substances from the system, can now be had at Dr. E. Caspari's Hydropathic Establishment, on Second street, between Walnut and Chestnut streets. The efficiency of these Baths has now been fully tested by a number of chemists and physicians in France as well as in several of our large eastern cities, and the fact has been fully established, that, by their application, metallic substances can be removed from the system.

The Electro-Chemical Bath has also proved very efficient in the treatment of Paralysis, Gout, Rheumatism. Obstinate Cutaneous Eruptions, and several other similar diseases.

Persons who are desirous to use these Baths will please apply to mylodawif Dr. E. CASPARI, Second st., between Walnut and Chestnut.
